Preventing cancer and lowering your risk

There are a variety of ways that you can reduce your risk of getting cancer including frequent screening tests, vaccines and making healthy choices. There are a few healthy habits that help lower your risk of most cancers, including avoiding tobacco, limiting alcohol consumption, exercising regularly and maintaining a healthy weight. But, often times prevention can vary depending on the kind of cancer.

Breast Cancer

- Get regular mammograms or clinical breast exams
- If you're taking, or have taken, hormone replacement therapy or oral contraceptives, talk to your doctor about potential risks
- Complete self-exams to detect any lumps, pain or changes in size

Cervical Cancer

- If you're under the age of 26, Human Papillomavirus (HVP) vaccines are recommended to protect against types of HPV that can cause cervical cancer
- Screening tests like the Pap test or HPV test can help with early detection and prevention

Lung Cancer

- In addition to being tobacco-free, try to avoid secondhand smoke when possible
- Test your home for radon
- Avoid other substances like asbestos, arsenic and diesel exhaust when possible

Skin Cancer

- Wear sunscreen with SPF 15 or higher to protect yourself from UV Rays
- Wear a hat and sunglasses to shade your face, ears, head and neck
- Avoid indoor tanning including tanning beds, sunbeds and sunlamps

Visit CDC.gov for more information.

Tips for returning to work

- Talk with your manager about any accommodations you may need, such as how you can take breaks during the day.
- Find out what your remote working options are so you have flexibility to keep up with your care and overall health.
- Use your resources and colleagues to support you.

Time off from work

If you need to be away from work to take care of yourself or a family member, you have options to help you take time off while still getting paid.

Sick Time

- Full-time employees are granted 80 paid sick hours each calendar year. Part-time employees are granted a prorated number of paid sick hours each calendar year based on their standard scheduled weekly hours.
- Sick time can be used when you are sick or when you are caring for an ill family member. It can also be used to go to doctor's appointments for yourself or your family member.
- Available sick time can be used to provide you with pay when used during the 10-day unpaid waiting period prior to Short Term Disability.

Short Term Disability (STD)

- STD replaces all or a portion of your base salary, or the Benefits Base Rate (BBR) for certain commissioned employees, beginning on day 11 of your leave for the next 100 business days.
- To initiate a Disability Leave, contact our administrator, Matrix Absence Management at 888-295-7862 within 30 days before your planned leave or as soon as possible following an illness or injury where you expect to be out more than 10 days.

Learn more about each of these options by visiting www.bmousbenefits.com or calling the Human Resources Centre at 888-927-7700, Monday through Friday, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. CT.

Long Term Disability (LTD)

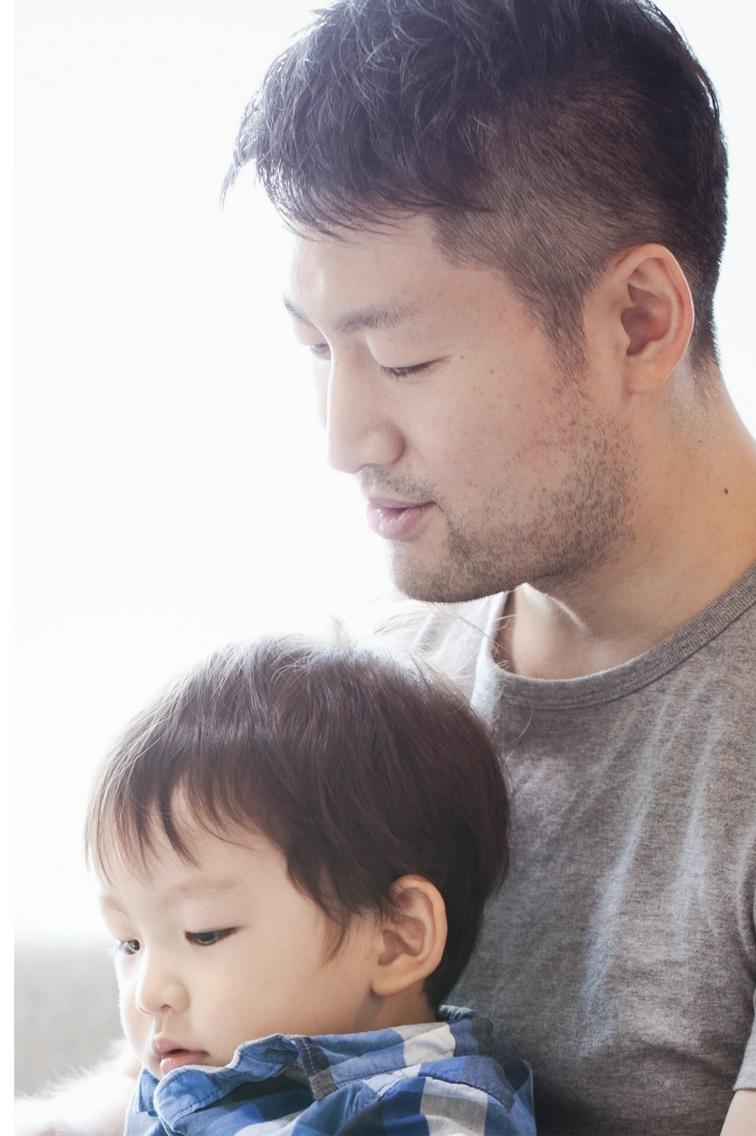

- After STD pay ends, LTD provides you with 60% of your total compensation (TCBBR) as long as you remain eligible.
- If you elected to purchase an additional 15% of supplemental LTD benefits, that will provide you with a total of 75% of your total compensation (TCBBR) as long as you remain eligible. The maximum payment under the LTD plan is $20,000 per month and is inclusive of your basic and supplemental coverage.
- Certain pre-existing condition rules apply, so please see the Disability Summary Plan Description to learn more.

Vacation Time

- Available vacation time can be used to provide you with pay when used during the 10-day unpaid waiting period prior to Short Term Disability, if sick time is not available to cover the full duration.
- It is so important to take care of yourself — your vacation time is available to support your well-being so you can take much needed breaks during your journey to rest and recharge.

Leaves of Absence

- Eligible employees can take up to 12 weeks of unpaid, job-protected leave in a 12-month period, known as a Family Medical Leave of Absence (FMLA). Qualifying reasons include:
 - Care of your family member with a serious health condition; or
 - Your own serious health condition that makes you unable to perform the functions of your job. In this case, FMLA will run concurrently to your STD timeframe.
- Employees that do not qualify for FMLA, may still be able to take an approved, unpaid Leave of Absence for up to 12 weeks.

Caregiver resources

As a patient, you may have a community of people — family, friends, colleagues, spiritual networks and more — or a single caregiver supporting you. This can be both comforting and overwhelming as you think about how to stay in touch while focusing on your care. It can be hard to think of how to ask for help, or which things can be delegated to someone else. Here are some ways you can involve others in your care and take a few things off your plate:

Ongoing care and recovery

- Managing medications, to ensure they are taken as prescribed.
- Discuss any comorbidities with the doctor, being mindful of how cancer treatments such as chemotherapy could affect current chronic conditions.
- Monitoring and supporting rehabilitation exercises and noting progress.
- Monitoring emotional state and knowing when to seek help from TELUS Health EAP or your provider team.

Administrative tasks

- Helping with recording and keeping medical records (consider keeping a daily journal online, using sites such as CaringBridge or MyLifeLine).
- Dealing with billing and insurance, if you sign the authorization form for your medical administrator (BCBSIL or Kaiser) to speak with your caregiver on your behalf.
- Managing appointments (follow-up, scheduling, transportation).
- Attending appointments to help take notes and advocate for care needs.

Are you a caregiver?

Contact TELUS Health EAP for strategies on how to balance your needs with those of your loved one.

Care for others

 - Walking the dog, feeding pets or pet-sitting.
 - Preparing a meal or coordinating a schedule of people bringing meals.
 - Cleaning out the refrigerator, taking in trash cans, mowing the lawn, shoveling the driveway or picking up groceries.

Are you a survivor?

Know that you're not alone. TELUS Health EAP can provide resources for counseling and grief to support you.

Looking to support a friend or family member undergoing treatment?

Consider putting together a chemo care tote bag. Items such as the below can provide comfort, relief, relaxation and inspiration to patients facing the fears and uncertainty of chemotherapy treatment.

Resources to support you

As you prepare to meet with your care providers, keep a log of questions for each appointment. You may have questions about:

- Your diagnosis.
- Your care plan, including what to expect during and after treatment to regain your strength and overall health.
- Medications and possible side effects (what, how long they will last).
- Options for taking time off work for treatment and recovering, including Short Term and Long Term Disability coverage.
- How your appearance may be impacted (e.g., hair loss, weight loss/gain).
- What information and/or data your care team will provide throughout your care and how to access it.
- What life may look and feel like after treatment.
- How your provider will help connect your care across the various providers.

Your medical plan administrators resources can help you develop questions for your upcoming appointments. They can also answer questions about your diagnosis and treatment.

A few things to tell your doctor:

- Who you would like to include in your care decisions, such as family member or other caregiver.
- Any cultural or religious beliefs that may affect your treatment choices or preferences.
- Any special plans or life goals so they can be considered when choosing a treatment plan, or deciding on the timing of a particular treatment.
- How medical decisions should be made in the event that you're not able to make them yourself (known as advanced directives).

Terms to know

Advanced directives

Written statements that express how you (or your family member) want medical decisions to be made in the future should you not be able to make them yourself. Common examples of advanced directives are power of attorneys and living wills. Note: Each state has their own unique laws around advanced directives, visit your state's website for more information.

Centers of Excellence

Center of Excellence (COE) provides leading care for particular cancers, providing best practices, research and support.

Comprehensive Cancer Center

Comprehensive Cancer Centers are recognized by the National Cancer Institute as having "leadership and resources, in addition to demonstrating an added depth and breadth of research, as well as substantial transdisciplinary research that bridges these scientific areas."

Genetics

The study of specific and limited quantities of genes or parts of genes.

Genomics

The study of an individual's entire genome (i.e., all of a person's genes).

Palliative care

Palliative care focuses on improving an individual's quality of life, combating symptoms such as nausea, anxiety and pain. This type of care can be provided at any point of a patient's oncology journey to help reduce physical or emotional fatigue. Learn more about the difference between palliative care and hospice care.

Personalized health care

With advancements in data diagnostics and analytics, physicians now have greater insight into a patient's unique health situation and can tailor care to the individual's disease and lifestyle. In particular, physicians can diagnose very specific types of cancers and match them with therapies or treatments that are most likely to slow or reverse cancer growth greatly increasing the patient's quality of life.

Patients and their families can also receive holistic support through oncology nurse advocacy programs to ensure all medical – including nutrition and physical therapy – needs, emotional and financial needs are supported as well.

Shared decision making

Shared decision making is an approach to care where a patient is presented several care, testing, or treatment options and is encouraged to consider the various options. The clinician and patient work together to make healthcare decisions based on the patient's preferences, informed by available evidence.

Targeted therapies

Targeted therapies include new treatments that are designed to target a particular type of cancer cell, in order to block growth and ability to spread throughout the patient. Because these types of treatments are localized to the cancer cells, they typically produce different, and possibly fewer, side effects than treatment designed to affect a patient's cancer and non-cancerous cells.
